A Note from Ms. Julie Lee

It is wonderful to see our students making steady progress and learning a little more about Hangul each week. Consistent review and practice are essential when learning a new language. At home, please encourage your child to read aloud and practice writing the words they have learned in class. Your praise and encouragement, even for small accomplishments, can make a big difference in their learning journey!

INSIDE OUR CLASS

Continuing from last month, we are using Hello, Hangul - An Introduction to Korean Through Stories as our primary textbook. Students are reviewing the consonants and vowels they have learned and practicing reading and writing a variety of words using these letters. Through repeated reading and writing activities, they are gradually becoming more familiar with Hangul and building confidence in reading and expressing themselves

PRACTICE @ HOME:

Weekly homework is assigned to help students review what they have learned in class. We also have weekly dictation quizzes based on the assigned homework. Please support your child at home by making sure they complete their homework regularly and take time to prepare for the weekly dictation quiz. Thank you for your continued support!

INSIDE OUR CLASS

For the remainder of the semester, we will focus on expanding vocabulary and expressions, reviewing grammar and sentence structures, and completing workbook activities through repeated practice. Students will also choose Korean books of their interest to strengthen their reading comprehension skills.

A Note from Mr. Paul Yeo

Students have been learning practical Korean through everyday expressions, as well as vocabulary and sentences that are relevant to different situations. They have been building their ability to use Korean meaningfully in everyday communication.Beyond language learning, I hope students will also explore Korean culture and history, develop a stronger sense of identity, and cultivate an interest in Korea while enjoying the learning process.

PRACTICE @ HOME:

Please encourage your child to review the weekly learning packet at home and sign their homework each week. Students who consistently collect signatures will receive a small reward. Thank you for your continued support!

Students have been learning basic vowels and practicing related vocabulary. We are aiming to complete our vowel lessons, review what we have learned, and then begin learning the basic consonants.

A Note from Ms. Sujeong Lee

It feels like we just started the school year in September, and yet it's already November! I'm so grateful to spend this beautiful autumn season with our students.
Our classes will conclude on November 21, marking the start of winter break. Thank you for your continued support, and I wish everyone a warm and joyful holiday season!

PRACTICE @ HOME:

Please help your child stay connected to Korean through songs, stories, and simple words at home. Before the break begins, I will share a file by email in November with links to resources your child can use to practice Korean at home.

INSIDE OUR CLASS

In October, Ms. Meejeon Lee, our director, kindly stepped in and taught our class for two weeks. Thanks to her thoughtful care and dedicated teaching, our students continued their learning without any interruption while I was in Korea. I would like to extend my heartfelt thanks to Director Lee once again, as well as to our students for their continued effort and steady progress in learning Korean.

A Note from Ms. Hannah Choi

Our goal is to help students build a strong foundation in Korean by mastering Hangul vowels and consonants, expanding their vocabulary, and developing a deeper understanding of grammar and sentence structure. This month, we are learning how to use simple sentences along with Korean particles attached to subjects and objects (은/는, 이/가, 을/를). Through these lessons, students are developing their ability to construct and use sentences more effectively.

PRACTICE @ HOME:

Homework is assigned every week, and students take a short quiz at the beginning of each class based on the assigned homework. We have noticed a clear difference in students' progress. Please help your child stay on track by checking their homework each week and reviewing their backpack the night before class. Please make sure they bring their textbook, handouts, and flashcards to class. Thank you for your continued support!
